Introduction

Because of the strict oral tradition of the Ordo ex Veritas, there are no 'official o.e.v documents' in existence. However, there is one exception - an anecdotal report tells that at the dawn of the 20th Century, fragmented esoteric texts, supposedly from rock/stone inscriptions, and of great age, came into the possession of the o.e.v.

The case caused quite a stir because the principles and symbols expressed within the texts described the innermost o.e.v teachings and keys that heretofore had only been passed orally. The circumstances surrounding the find are vague; however, it was reported that the text was inscribed on fragments of grey coloured rock, and on sandy coloured rock shards.

The texts entered into o.e.v lore and were accepted as confirmation. In the following material, I present the texts as they were passed to the author (the actual text is noted in italics) through initiation.

The Fragments

Fragment 1 - Crossing, Joining, Leaving, and restoration

From crossing and joining, chaos and conflict came to be, and the many departed. One remained at the gate, and the night of forgetting fell. Key and markers, to secret and purpose, are hidden until the time of remembering dawns. And with key and markers, the portal opens to confirm secret and purpose. Then the remnant will unify with that which can be, and all shall exist within reality. And this is the key. Rites of passage will manifest secret and purpose, and few will understand, and fewer will see. All that was begun now completes, and nothing can be fulfilled beyond the gate. There is but one key, five markers, and five rites of passage. To the seeker, a warning - you will face the great illusion, and only in light will you succeed.

Fragment 2 - The Key

When the five-pointed-star that is man, joins with the six-pointed-star of that which can be, and all exists within the six-sided circle of reality, then the key is complete, and the portal opens. Within the key lie the twenty-two paths, and that which is, now grows by that which is not, and secret and purpose are fulfilled. The Sphinx presides upon the key, and judgement determines the way.

Fragment 3 - Erecting the Key

Look to the heavens, and the key is illuminated. Where equinox and equinox, solstice and solstice meet, there is beginning. And, two hours from dawn, then five times four hours for one round, determine the rites of passage and the limits of the key. Herein lies the path of life, and each to all is joined two and twenty times in the celebration of life, and in this is the key erected.

Fragment 4 - Opening the Portal

He who erects the key, opens the portal by entering where equinox and solstice meet, and energy unto the four locks will flow, and the gates open - physical, spirit, behind, and before. Perception and expression are unified through dominions and rite of passage, and secret and purpose are fulfilled in the celebration of life.

Fragment 5 - Markers, Rites of Passage, Paths, and Dominions

Five markers point to the rites of passage. With sensation there is recognition. With feeling there is utilisation. With wisdom there is realisation. Without illusion there is actualisation. Through unification there is being, and all is manifested, in freedom, by the paths through the four dominions.

Fragment 6 - Ending

The spiral of life unravels, and the cycle is complete. There is a futile stand against the enemy within that cannot be defeated, and the enemy within prevails. They who are deluded by the gods who are no gods, shall be no more, and they who wish to leave shall leave. For, secret and purpose can only be fulfilled in the joy, desire, and celebration of life.

The Shards

Shard i

*To he who opens the portal, know this:
They came from the stars,
They have gone to the stars,
They will not be coming back,
They have no need to return...*

--()--

Shard ii

*That which we started, we can now fulfil,
We do not need them,
We do not need to seek for them,*

*We do not need to wait for them,
We do not need to follow them...*

--()--

Shard iii

*We look to ourselves,
We have chosen the better path,
We are few.
May we prosper on our journey,
And may we be safe,
For we are all who are left...*

--()--

Shard iv

*They are not coming back,
We do not need to follow,
We can fulfil all that we started,
In us the universe is manifested,
We are free,
We can think,
We hope for tomorrow...*

End
